"MINICAR" DOES 100 MILES PER GALLON

Designed by Mr. Laurie Bond, the "Minicar" is three-wheeled, does 100 miles to the gallon, has a maximum speed of 40 miles per hour, and weighs only 196 pounds. It has seating accommodation for two adults and one child. At present being made for overseas markets, it is expected to sell in Britain for 198 pounds. This picture shows that there is no need for a special parking place, as the "Minicar" can be lifted by two adults into any space.

Robert McKay of San Francisco, Director of Field Services and Public Relations of the California Teachers' Association will be the featured speaker and will lead a discussion on Public Relations problems. In Canada 92 per cent of the personal income from all sources goes to persons who earn less than $5,000 a year; 85 per cent of those earnings less than $3,000.

BICYCLES ON SIDEWALKS ARE A MENACE TO PEDESTRIANS

Reports of bicycles being ridden on the sidewalks in the village are being received and are becoming a hindrance to pedestrians both in daytime and during the evening. Unless this practise is stopped possible injury to both the riders and pedestrians could occur. Bicycles should not be left on sidewalks under any circumstances as elderly residents who may suffer from poor eyesight and are not as agile as they were in their younger years can also come to serious harm if they should stumble over such an obstacle. All bicycle owners are asked to assist by parking or riding bicycles where they rightfully belong, or a by-law will be enforced to prosecute any violators.

C. A. Cressman Resigns from Village Council

At a meeting of the council of the Village of Carbon, held Monday evening, April 4 in the Village office, C.A. Cressman, recently elected councillor, tendered his resignation. The resignation was accepted and a vacancy now exists on the council, making an election necessary. Nomination day to fill the vacancy was set at Monday, April 11 and if more than one nomination is received an election will be held at a later date. Enforcing of the curfew by-law was discussed and E. Sobyski was appointed to see that this by-law was observed in future.

LONG YEARS AGO

April 4, 1939

A light fall of snow came Thursday evening last and a couple of days of weather was experienced, but "old sol" is out again as warm as ever and the seeding operations will go ahead without delay.

S.J. Garrett has received another carload of new Chevrolet cars and in order to make room for the new models is offering all used cars at bargain prices.

Advertisers in this issue were W.H.T. Olive, Builders' Hardware, Carbon Trading Co., W.A. Braisher, T. Gilbert, Mack's Drug Store, Nels Herbert, Garrett Motors, Dr. H.G. Dunbar, S.N. Wright, Alex. Schyalki, E.S. Hesselgrave and C.W. Lind.

A cross section of the articles being advertised shows bread selling at 4 loaves for 25c; gingham from 25c to 35c per yard; men's socks 3 pairs for $1.00; brooms, 50c; and galvanized washtubs, 80c.

Oats, Barley Floor Prices Maintained

Floor prices on oats and barley will be maintained during the 1949-50 crop year, according to an announcement made on March 15th by Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, federal minister of trade and commerce.

The floor prices for these grains in the new crop year will be the same as at present—61½¢ a bushel for No. 1 feed oats and 90¢ for No. 1 feed barley, both in store Fort William-Port Arthur. Such floor prices will apply only to grain grown in the prairie provinces.

Mr. Howe said there would be no support prices for seed corn, flaxseed, rapeseed and sunflower seed. There are world surpluses of such crops.

The five year census (conducted in the Prairie Provinces only) shows that from 1941 to 1946 Saskatchewan lost 63,200 of its population, Alberta gained 7,100 and Manitoba lost 2,800.

New Basic Herd Regulations Announced by Federal Gov't

A directive has been issued by the federal government covering the establishment by farmers of basic herds for income tax purposes.

Under the terms of the directive Revenue Minister McCann "states that basic herds may be established for cattle, horses, sheep or swine.

Both registered and grade animals are included, but a separate basic herd must be established for both provided that where the number of animals in either class does not exceed 10 per cent of the total basic herd it will be unnecessary to establish a basic herd for each.

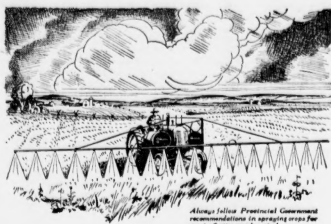

Approval of a basic herd may be applied for to be effective, as of January 1, 1947, for a taxpayer who has engaged in livestock operations begun after January 1, 1947.

The number of animals in the basic herd cannot at any time exceed the number of animals on hand. Animals purchased for feeder operations cannot be included.

The number of animals in the basic herd may be increased in any subsequent taxation year by the addition of mature animals acquired either by gift, inheritance or purchase, provided no part of the cost was charged against income, or by natural increase if the fair market value of such animals is added to the income of the taxation year in which they gain maturity.

Where the whole herd is reduced either by sale or any other cause to a point where the total number—expressed in terms of mature animals—is less than the number of animals determined as the basic herd, the difference between the number on hand and the basic herd itself will be deemed capital disposition and not subject to income tax.

The average price of all animals—expressed in terms of mature animals—sold in the year in which the basic herd is reduced will be used in determining the amount of capital realization.

DRUG SERIES—Story No. 19

CLINICAL INSTRUMENTS

The great teachers of medicine in the 18th century, though better equipped as regards knowledge than their predecessors, had no better apparatus for diagnosis than the ancients. The first efficient clinical instrument of precision to merit clinical adoption was the "Pulse Tactile" introduced in 1707. It ran for exactly one minute. Attempts were also made to introduce the thermometer into practice, but the construction of a suitable instrument was impossible at that time. Both these ideas were perfected in the 19th century.

Precussion is of great value to the physician as a means of finding out the position of the internal organs, especially those of the chest. It was invented in 1780 by Leopold Auenbrugger, a Viennese physician, and adopted in general practice about the beginning of the 19th century.

Even more important than the introduction of Precussion was the adoption of the stethoscope, an invention by a French physician, Rene Laennec. It was originally a simple roll of paper but in 1819 it was developed to the uni-tubular type.

Britain To Be Gay In 1951

LONDON — Britain is going gay in 1951. The 'Festival of Britain' two years hence is getting over-all planning from city, town and hamlet the country across. It will be a year of fireworks, pageantry, sport and entertainment galore.

And Britain, as she prepares to go gay, is not forgetting to make every provision for overseas visitors to share and enjoy the general festive spirit.

Although the dominant motif in this planning is to make 1951 a year of gaiety in striking contrast to the austerity of recent years, past achievements will be recalled mingled with the inspiration of hopes for the future.

Cultural, historical and traditional festivities and exhibitions—some of them bearing the mark of time and worldwide favor and patronage—will be 'foundation' events.

Stratford-on-Avon, for example, will have its customary festival of homage to Shakespeare. But it will fit into the general pattern of a country celebrating.

Cheltenham will pursue its annual association with contemporary music and Edinburgh will again be host to international music and drama.

All these festivals, however established in the favor of international visitors, will be intimately associated with the over-all plan for the festival.

All the main exhibitions, and in particular the central exhibition at the south bank of the Thames opposite Westminster, will be elaborate—as opposed to trade fairs in which individual firms can buy space.

They will tell the story of British life as it was evolved out of the people and the land, how Britain rose to work, enjoys its history and plays its part in invention, discovery and design. The general policy is that subsequent utility shall mark all planning.

CONSTABLE STOPPED TRAFFIC FOR MOUSE

LONDON.—A mouse picked its way along the curb at busy Fenchurch Street, stopped at the foot of a policeman and looked up appealingly.

The bobbie halted the stream of cars and escorted the mouse to the other side of the street.

The mouse went about its business. The flow of traffic resumed.

Spring Fashions Steal The Spotlight

SPRING — at this time of the year, mady's thoughts naturally turn to clothes and the new fashions are enough to make you sit on top of the world. At left is a suit of fine white and brown checks with a neat-fitting bodice, slim skirt and velvet-trimmed jacket. With spring, there are more formal dances and you'll want something soft and feminine, like the gown in center. It comes in pastel shades, and has a strapless bodice and sequin effect overskirt. Pale gray cavalry twill makes the "Raiting" coat at right. It is fitted with a bolero effect achieved by a yoke outlined with a band of material. Folds at sides form pockets.

BALLET SWIMMERS

Expertly trained ballet swimmers go through their routines for spectators in Weekiwanee Springs, Fla., never go to the surface for air, which is supplied by an underwater stage with an air pressure chamber. Weekiwanee is Florida's latest discovery in underwater scenery. It's a submarine gallery the size of a Pullman car and the audience looks through the clear water on what appears to be the sides of a snow-covered mountain.

In early times dwarfs were used as court attendants in England. Mary I had a page two feet high.

STAMP CORNER :

By JAMES MONTAGNES

Flowers on stamps make a specialty collection for many philatelists. Here are a few of the flower stamps which have appeared in recent years: (Top left to right), Switzerland's Alpine dog-rose, Bahamas' sea flowers, Colombia's orchid. (Lower left to right), Bulgaria's rose, Holland's cornflower, and United States poppy.

Floral stamps have become an increasing popular specialty, and there are many stamps issued in recent years, as well as in the past, depicting flowers of every land. One of the finest sets issued recently was that released by Austria last summer, showing 10 different flowers in full color, including the carnation, violet, wild rose, edelweiss and cyclamen.

This Austrian set is one of the sets issued in which the featuring decoration is the flower. There are numerous stamps which use flowers as marginal or supplementary decoration, such as the various British stamps, showing the rose, thistle, shamrock and lily. Another such recent set which featured flowers entirely is the 1947 set from Colombia which showed six different tropical orchids from that country.

Switzerland has probably issued more floral stamps than any other country, featuring flowers on recent child welfare stamps starting with the issue of 1945, which featured the alpine and gentian. Every year since then two or three new floral stamps have been shown on the annual child welfare stamp.

Netherlands issued a floral child welfare set in 1932, showing four flowers depicting seashell, iris, cornflower, sunflower and Christmas rose. The sunflower and the rose have also been shown on two values of Bulgaria's 1938 national production set. Honduras featured an orchid on one value of its 1943 air mail set. Flowers of the coffee plant were featured on the 1928 Haiti stamp for its coffee industry and also on a Brazilian stamp of 1938. Brazil also issued flower stamps in 1946, showing an orchid, and in 1939 showing the chalice blossom. Egypt has featured flowers on a branch of hyacinth on a 1938 stamp issued for the long-run congress of that year.

On stamps of the British Empire flowers have been used more for supplementary decorative purposes. Bahamas features tropical underwater flowers on a 1938 stamp showing the sea garden at Nassau. Canada has not issued any single stamps showing the maple leaf, but the maple leaf has been featured as decorative elements since 1907. Earliest stamps of Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia featured heraldic flowers of Great Britain, and the popular six cents Prince Elizabeth stamp of Newfoundland in 1933, showing the rose and thistle as decoration alongside the portrait of the then baby princess.

There are many more flower stamps, enough to keep a collector busy for some time to make a complete collection to date.

Ed. Note.—If you have any old Canadian, Newfoundland or British North American stamps for sale or exchange write to our Advertising director, Mr. Pratt Kahn, 120 Wellesley St. W., Toronto 1, Ont., who is the national director of the Canadian self-addressed stamp exchange for reply.

Surgeons Revive Youth After Heart Stops 40 Minutes

CHICAGO — Two surgeons announced revival of a 16-year-old youth 40 minutes after his heart action stopped completely.

An American Medical Association source said he believed this was the longest known heart stoppage on record by successful resuscitation.

Reporting in the AMA journal, Dr. Arthur S. Touffor and Dr. Milton H. Aitman, said the youth's heart failed during a long operation in Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York, Jan. 16, 1948.

Dr. Touffor immediately began to massage the heart with his hands. Adrenalin and blood were given to the patient. Artificial respiration was maintained with 100 per cent oxygen administered through the anesthetic apparatus.

During the long period of heart failure, the doctors said, the patient breathed in gases at irregular intervals, but when heart massage was stopped for an instant there were only a few feeble, ineffectual contractions noticed. A strong heart beat resumed unexpectedly, just as the doctors prepared to operate on the organ.

FIGHTS FOR NAME — Talhuth (Talitha)—or a tube of shampoo. The actress lawyer, Donald Sewell, said he is filing a $100,000 suit in New York and seeking an injunction against a soap company, an advertising agency, and two radio networks. Cause of the suit, Sewell said, is a misleading commercial that refers to a tube of shampoo as "talitha".

Cottage Schools Are Becoming Popular

The Lethbridge Herald says: Carden recently opened a cottage school costing $30,000. These schools, we understand, are coming into favor and Carden is planning a second one to serve its growing school population. This will be in the west end of Carden, a section of the Temple City requiring additional facilities.

The cottage school is designed to take care of overflow student population. It is built at a minimum cost yet modern and provides in a satisfactory way supplementary accommodation. The new cottage school contains 110 seats, 100 feet, having four large classrooms and a hall extending the full length of the building. It has a teachers' office and other essential space. Abundant lighting provided the classrooms is a feature.

At a time when cities and towns everywhere are grappling with increasing school populations and rising operating costs these supplementary schools appear to have a place. Lethbridge has one called the Annex to Fleetwood School.

Hints In Code For Bringing Up Father

LONDON.—"Bringing up father" is the aim of a code of behavior issued by Middlesex County Council for the "Fathers' Care" Mothers get them at clinics and are told to pass them along to their husbands.

Hints include: "Don't give baby a dummy (comforter) . . . Don't let mother to feed the child just to quiet it at night . . . Don't shatter baby's nerves with the violence or choke it with tobacco fumes."

The booklet also advises father to make a cup of tea in the morning to help start her day well.

Further advice is given against reading fairy tales with too lurid characters or incidents. And finally: "Don't play with their toys when they are lying to use them."

ABOIT CRYSTALS
Precious stones are crystals which formed when molten rock was allowed to cool and take as a gift stone or mineral in water solutions and were formed when the water evaporated. The term "precious" usually means hard, rare, flawless and suitably colored.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

PROCRUSTINATION

It is an undoubted truth that the less one has to do, the less time one tries to do it in.—Lord Chesterfield.

A great amount of time is consumed in talking nothing, doing nothing, and indicating as to what one should do.—Mary Baker Eddy.

We always have time enough, if we will but use it aright.—Goethe.

Time is short, but the loss of life never stops, and the pattern which was weaving when the sun went down is weaving when it comes up in the morning.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Tomorrow is the ambush wait for the circumlocution. Tomorrow is the fatal rock on which a million ships are wrecked.—Wall Mason.

Cease to inquire what the future has in store, and take as a gift stone or mineral in water solutions and were formed when the water evaporated. The term "precious" usually means hard, rare, flawless and suitably colored.

The average adult is 11 1/2 inches in a lifetime. Not counting, of course, those mornings after.

On The Side —By E. V. Durling

If I had but two little wings,
And were a little feathery bird,
To you I'd fly, my dear,
But thought like these are idle things
And I stay here.
But in my dream to you I fly,
I'm always with you in my dreams,
On nights when I am all alone,
But then one wakes, and where am I?

—COLERIDGE
What is the oldest automobile still in regular use anywhere? One nomination is a three-wheeled motor car named the Cykion which is still regularly operated in England. This car was made in Germany in 1800. It has been in continuous operation for nearly 50 years. Its present owner, one Edward Duncan, bought it from a jeweler for the equivalent of $7.50 in 1912. Duncan has been driving the car ever since.

AMONG THE MARRIED
"Wanted—a wife weighing not less than 14 stone (196 pounds)." That was the advertisement inserted in London newspapers by one Philip Leach, a well-known fact. The man was a widower, had been happily married for 22 years to a woman weighing 11 pounds. He wanted his second wife to resemble his first as much as possible. The advertisement found the kind of wife he wanted. He had. He received more than 400 replies from plump women from all over the world. From these he selected Mrs. Alice Barnes, a 38-year-old widow, weighing 250 pounds. Mr. Leach weighed 150 pounds. Whether or not he really figures his bride over the threshold of their new home was not reported.

PASSING BY
Tom Sharkey, gallant ringmaster of the year, was 50 years ago when he thought Jim Jeffries at Coney Island. Tom lost that one. After the bout he told reporters: "When I hit Jeffries I was so sure I was going to win with all my might and he didn't go down, the heart went out of me."

MILKES AND MEN
Of course, if your daughter has decided to marry a man you do not approve there is really not much you can do to make her change her mind. She'll just say: "That's all right, I love him. I love him." However, it is still your duty to give your daughter a few helpful hints on husband choosing. For example, tell her she will be making a mistake if she marries a man who after personally figuring her out in 1938 to win blames the jockey when he loses. A man like that might be inclined to nag his wife.

(By Francis James)

I've always felt a bit sorry for the man who has to go to bed every night in a bower of flowers and ruffled dimity. He must wonder, sometimes, if he hasn't drifted by mistake into a perfume bottle.

I feel equally sorry, though, for the woman who has to go to bed every night in a room that looks like a man's dream of the perfect hunting retreat.

Actually there's no reason why a master-bedroom is one or the other of these. Whether they're overly-feminine or overly-masculine depends, I suppose, on who winds the broom in the house.

Master-bedroom can't be entirely pleasing to both the man and the woman in question. A bit of compromise in the decoration will do the trick.

A bedroom shared by a man and a woman is no place for wallpaper alive with delicate nosegays. No, it is a place for the sturdy, solid patterns that a man seems to consider masculine. It is a place for wallpaper that both can enjoy. For soft, low-toned backgrounds and subtle, tailored stripes. Or for rich, bold patterns against smartly neutral backgrounds.

The master-bedroom isn't the place, either, for window flanked by the airy-fair loveliness of frilled and ruffled dimity or organly or voile. Nor yet for the dead solidity of fabric and colour that a man, let loose in a department store, might take to his heart. Here again, there should be compromise. Draw curtains in the gaiety of patterned chintz, if the walls are plain or quietly patterned, or in rich, plain fabric if the main colour interest is in the walls, will satisfy both the man's desire for sturdiness and the woman's desire for soft beauty.

A master-bedroom needn't be all burned dressing table nor all heavy oak highboy. A streamlined table on which the skirt is placed in a good, worldly material rather than gathered in something the fairies might have made for the night won't make a man feel out of place in what should be his own room. And a graceful highboy in deeply polished wood will be a pleasure to the most feminine of women.

Master-bedroom decoration is a subject on which husbands and wives should get together more often. They owe it to each other.

BERLIN YOUTHS IN 'COAL RACKET'—While Canadian boys are busy this time of year playing marbles, it's a different story in Berlin where the average youth is concerned with keeping warm. OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

That Last Look

By ROY V. PRICE

TERRIFYING fear swept through her as Grace stood looking out the door down the rough path toward the swamp. "But, Ben, he's coming!" Her voice was scarcely above a whisper.

"Doggone the skunk!" Ben snapped. "I'll show 'im who's the coward!"

Grace's eyes were glued on the double-barrelled shotgun across her husband's knees on the back step of their little log farmhouse. She shivered more when she thought about the poor shot Ben was on account of his eyes.

"For short range of Ben is better. Poses is scoring every foot of the section with bloodhounds. They'll get 'im, shore!"

"I knowed somethin' like this was not to happen! That's what made me go on to tell the sheriff about 'im," she said.

"Logic will prove I done the only right thing a decent, honest man could do!"

Running his trap lines, Ben had come upon Elmer Rake and another man burying something in the swamp. Ben had heard their plans for robbing the bank. The sheriff had caught the two in the act... had recovered the loot from other robberies.

"Even the pen couldn't hold his likes," Grace moaned.

"It did for more'n six years until he shot his way out. Ben shot another chance at the swamp. 'An' a feller term'll be waiting for the skunk!"

"Just 'cause he called you a 'snack-in' coward 'an' said he'd 'git you' is no reason for you to stand out in the open and be shot down."

"I'll face 'im, man to man. If he raises his gun, I'll shoot. That's a man's way of doing things."

Before Grace could reply, her face turned white. She saw a figure emerge out of the twilight realm of the swamp.

Holding his shotgun with trigger readiness, Rake snarled. "You want to see if you can shoot me, you sneaking coward!"

"Git 'im, mate!" Suddenly, Rake lost his snarl, stiffened.

The eternity of each second stretched from within. Rake cast a wild, despairing stare at Ben, then lowered his gun and stepped back.

The quiet was broken by the roaring of a pack of bloodhounds... voices of men behind them...

Grace stepped to the door. Rake was in full flight, headed toward the swamp. With a sudden stop, raised his hands... Three men stepped from behind trees...

Ben's voice. "Ya see, honey, a man's gotta stand 'n' fight!"

Grace knew he would never guess why Rake had backed down; because he had looked into the cabin, over Ben's shoulder, and stared into the muzzle of her rifle.

Dominion Will Contribute To Road Diversion

OTTAWA.—The Cabinet has approved a Federal Government contribution of 40 per cent of the cost of a diversion on the Trans-Canada Highway at Flood, five miles west of Hope, to eliminate a railway crossing.

Total cost of the diversion, which is at Mile 478 of the Yale subdivision of the C.N.R., is not to exceed $100,000, according to the Cabinet order.

The diversion will keep the high-way entirely on the south side of the railway at this point.

Prairies Need Good Spring Rains For Crop

WINNIPEG.—Early good spring rains will have to fall on the prairie wheat lands if an average crop is to be harvested this season.

Moisture reserves, estimated last fall at only 64 per cent, of normal for stubble and summer fallow land combined are at a low level, and will only be made up by better than average rains.

According to an estimate published by the Seattle grain company summer fallow reserves average 57 per cent, of normal for the prairie; stubble moisture only amounts to 41 per cent.

In the United States the picture is different. Most unofficial agencies report favorable conditions over most of the winter wheat belt, and the United States agriculture department's bureau of agricultural economics state that there has been very little winter wheat failure.

The American wheat is sown on the largest acreage on record, four per cent, larger than in 1937. The United States corn acreage for 1948, estimated in the agriculture department's report on intentions to plant, will be the smallest in 50 years.

FARM STILL A GOING CONCERN

There is no indication, according to replies to a Financial Post questionnaire, of a widespread fear that mechanization will eliminate or have permanently disastrous effects on farm family life.

The question was: "Do you fear the results, social or otherwise, of the reputed decline of the family-operated farm?"

While most answers show there has been some decline, and that social and economic conditions have been affected, there is disagreement about what those effects have been. However, that function life is at least as important in its social aspects as it is economically.

Farm life where it seems to be deteriorating, cannot be maintained simply by sentimental appeals; it must compete—and successfully—with other forms of social life. Almost all agree a careful study should be made to see exactly what is happening to the institution of the farm-family in Canada; few think it will disappear.

A.M.A. Calls for Dim Lights at 400 Yards

Alberta motorists will be required to dim their lights when at least four hundred yards from an oncoming car, under the provision of a bill to amend the Motor Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act which has been introduced in the legislature. Complaints over glare headlights during the past year has made the change necessary. Formerly, headlights had to be dimmed at least 200 yards from an approaching car.

Increased power in headlights also is another reason for the new legislation. The Alberta Motor Association in promoting safety on the highways has stressed the need of dimming car lights as the circumstances demand and thus increase driving safety.

The bill now before the legislature also provides that persons who drive rubber-tired tractors on the highways must have a drivers license.

Of interest to rural residents is the provision that farmers or their employees, along with operators of commercial vehicles, are not required to purchase chauffeur's licenses. One stipulation is that farmers or their employees must be operating farm vehicles used principally transporting property of the farmer.

BABY PIG MORTALITY

In 1948 the total number of pigs born on Canadian farms was 4,152,500, and the number saved was 3,532,200. This indicates a loss of 600,300 little pigs. In the previous year the loss was 691,900.

In Alberta the loss of little pigs totalled 109,500, or 15 per cent. Only in Manitoba was baby pig mortality greater than Alberta. The mortality in Prince Edward Island was 3 per cent.

IRRIGATION EXPENDITURES

The federal government has earmarked $7½ million for the development of irrigation and water conservation projects on the prairie provinces for the fiscal year beginning April 1st. This amount is to be divided as follows: St. Mary's project $2,000,000, Bow River project $2,000,000, South Saskatchewan project $2,000,000, other projects and surveys $600,000. In addition, $2,000,000 has been set aside for implementing the Prairie Farmer Rehabilitation Act.

U.S. HOG PRICES

Under provisions of the Agricultural Act of 1948, price support for hogs were mandatory 90 per cent of parity until December of 1948. It is now announced that prices will be supported at 90 per cent of parity until March 1950, in order to assure a more stable pig market supply until the end of 1949-50 marketing season.

Longer Summer

If Canada would back the campaign of many U.S. communities and postpone its annual Labour Day holiday a couple of weeks, millions would be added to our tourist revenue. That is the opinion of D. Leo Dolan, head of Canada's Travel Bureau, who has been actively campaigning for such a change.

At present Labour Day comes on the first Monday in September and it has come to be regarded by the public at large as marking the end of the holiday season. If postponed until mid-September, Mr. Dolan argues that the rush season for tourists would be extended a fortnight with benefit to all of us.

Whether a simple change like this would prove as practical and profitable as Mr. Dolan predicts, the beginning of the school year immediately following the present Labour Day might be a complication. Certainly tourists are neglecting one of the most beautiful months in Canada, And June, at the other end, is another good month for travel and outdoor holidays, but it too is neglected.
